8 Aurei Gold Medallion of Claudius II Gothicus 268 - 270 A.D.

This immense gold medallion of Claudius II Gothicus is one of the earliest multiple denomination gold medallions struck by the Romans while bronze medallions of the Roman period before Claudius Gothicus are scarce, but do occur with a certain degree of regularity. Gold medallions are nearly non-existent.

This particular medallion is unquestionably genuine as it was found in the remnant of a Roman galley. Fortunately, there were about seventeen of these medallions recovered along with many aurei. The medallions all shared the same obverse die while two reverse dies were employed.

While the finest of them went to the British Museum, this is one of the best three or four in the hoard. The apparent clip at five o'clock is a weight adjustment done at the time of minting because not only is the weight of the medallion essentially correct but parts of the letters C & O flow over the edge of the clip rather than stopping abruptly at its edge as it would if they were present at the moment of adjustment.

It is quite obvious that this represents a unique opportunity to obtain one of the largest Numismatic gold items ever created by Roman civilization. Gnechi - Plate 3:#8 A medallion from the same hoard struck from the same pair of dies in the 1975 Munzen und Medaillen Sale Lot #740 brought 155,000 SFr. GdVF P.O.R.
